

MARK CRIDER'S SUICIDE AND STAGE DEATH TRAINING

Day One: Suicide Death Training with 2 hr mental health - Day one examines the complexities of suicide and equivocal death investigations beyond the initial appearance of the scene. Participants will learn a structured, methodical approach to suicide analysis that emphasizes objective investigation, scene assessment, victimology, evidence evaluation, and recognition of staged or suspicious circumstances.

Day Two: Staged Death Scenes with 2 hr mental health - Day two examines the recognition, analysis, and investigation of staged death scenes. Participants will learn indicators of staged homicides, suicides, accidents, and equivocal deaths and investigative inconsistencies that frequently reveal scene manipulation.
