Tribal Roundtable

To have agencies meet and greet and exchange information to better help victims of crime.

Crime Victim Services Roundtable

The roundtable, originally created as an ongoing Native American outreach initiative, brings together victim service providers, law enforcement, and prosecutors from local, state, tribal, federal, and non-government agencies. The overall goal of the roundtable is to facilitate open communication, coordination, and collaboration in our effort to provide comprehensive services to victims of crime in our communities. You are welcome to bring information to share with the attendees including brochures, training announcements, and resources for victims. Feel free to invite co-workers, colleagues and allied professionals to the roundtable.
