Northeast Oklahoma Community Corrections Center (NOCCC) is a minimum-security facility for adult male offenders. The facility is located in Vinita on the grounds formerly known as Eastern State Hospital. In 1987, the Department of Corrections’ Agri-Services Unit began leasing the farmland at Eastern State Hospital. After several years of this expanding relationship, the legislature passed laws in 1994 transferring three large buildings at Eastern State Hospital to the Department of Corrections for use as prison bed space. During December 1994, the first offenders were transferred to the newly established facility. In 2020, the minimum-security facility was rededicated as a community corrections center. NOCCC’s Agri-Service division is a tremendous asset to the agency as it hosts the only inmate-operated sawmill in the state. Inmates use the sawmill to refurbish all stock, flatbed, and semi-trailer for every facility statewide. In addition to the trailers, inmates also build mineral feeders for Agri-Services departments across the state, and produce more than 175 ricks of wood annually to be sold, generating revenue for the agency.

Many inmates lack education, a key component in avoiding re-incarceration. NOCCC offers literacy courses as well as diplomas for Pre-High School Equivalency and High School Equivalency. For those inmates who need substance abuse treatment, NOCCC teaches them ways to avoid drug and alcohol use, while also helping them develop the cognitive, social, emotional, and coping skills needed. NOCCC offers Thinking for a Change, Moral Reconciliation Therapy, and Associates 4 Success programs to address thinking, judgment errors, and relationships linked with criminal behavior.
