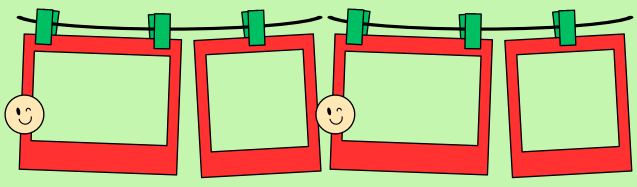
OKYL COMMUNITY OF PRACTICE

Don't forget! We will take a break from COP for June and July. Be ready to meet back up in August to share about summer and explore the summer reading report!

READ FOR ADVENTURE

The OKC Zoo shared these images that we can use in social media. You're welcome to share them too, if they are helpful.



SUMMER PICTURES!

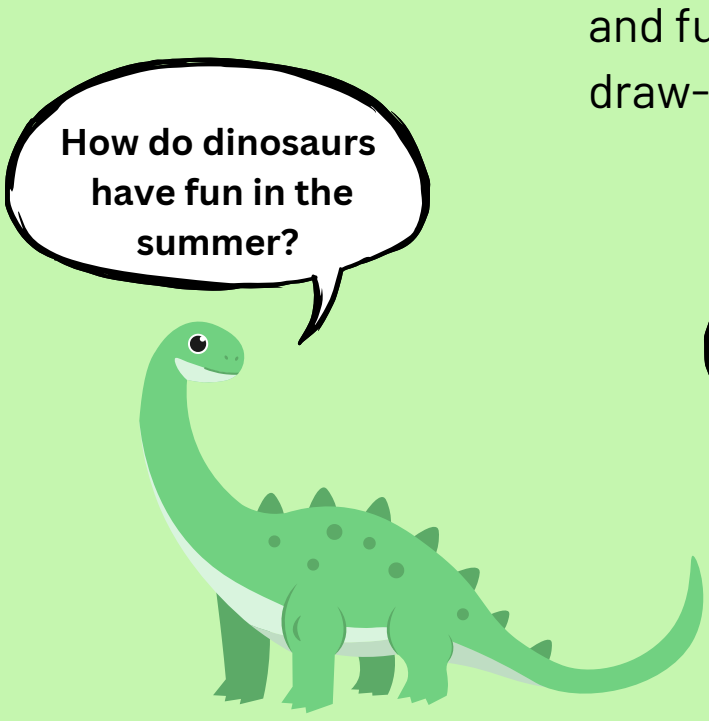
Summer is here, and we love to see pictures of the many activities going on at libraries around the state! Please send us any that you're willing to share (and if we have permission to share them too.)

EARLY LITERACY AND SINGING

Many of us have been studying, learning, and implementing the five practices for early literacy: read, write, talk, sing, and play. This article shares more extensive information about the "sing" - and more reasons why we should do it!

SUMMER READING REPORT

Please take a look at the PDF of this year's Summer Reading Report. You can find it attached to the email for this update. This is such an important tool for us here at ODL, and for you too! We go through it carefully every year to make sure we are asking the questions that will help us tell the story of summer reading and learning in Oklahoma. We give it to you early so that you can carry out summer activities with these questions in mind! If you have any questions, please let me know.

CRAYOLA LEARNING


Crayola has a new round of free resources and fun here! Craft ideas, read-along draw-along, and more.
