Projects that support tribal health care programs

Collaborative Savings

The Chickasaw Nation, The Choctaw Nation and Indian Health Services have partnered with OHCA to realize $348,419 in savings to the agency budget from SFY 2017 to SFY 2020. The dollar-saving collaboration is a result of the 100% Federal Medical Assistance Percentage initiative between OHCA and Urban Indian Clinic (ITU) providers that allows the state to maximize federal participation for referrals of SoonerCare members from ITUs.

HIV Task Force

OHCA has partnered with the Oklahoma City Indian Clinic, Southern Plains Tribal Health Board, Oklahoma State Department of Health and several others to address the increase in HIV cases among Oklahoma's tribal population. This collaborative effort includes regular taskforce meetings to create and identify resources and partners to develop an action plan.

Tribal Money Follows the Person Tribal Initiative

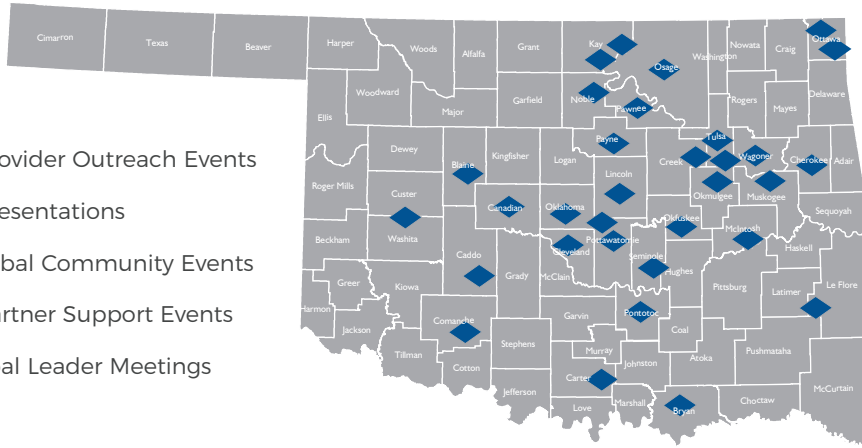

OHCA is collaborating with the Wichita and Affiliated Tribes through the MFP-TI grant. The goal of the initiative is to assist the tribe(s) in developing their infrastructure and capabilities to become a service provide for elder care services through the program.
