EVENT SUMMARY

The Muskogee Pages Across the Plains Literacy Workshop brought together 70 educators from 18 districts for a dynamic day of professional learning. The strong regional turnout reflected participants' eagerness to engage in collaborative growth and strengthen literacy practices across communities. A key focus of the day was building deeper knowledge around phonemic awareness and syntax—foundational components of effective reading instruction. Educators explored how these elements directly impact student success and discovered strategies to integrate them into their daily teaching. With its targeted content, high-level collaboration, and commitment to instructional excellence, the Muskogee event was a powerful addition to the workshop series.

PARTICIPANT FEEDBACK

“As an administrator made me want to learn more to help my teachers to help my kiddos.”

“Excellent training! Keep HEROES offering this training!”

“The classes provided new learning strategies and materials I will use when teaching.”
