

Gross Receipts to the Treasury November 2023

As expected, declining revenues from oil and gas production push gross receipts slightly down. Receipts to the Treasury for the last 12 months of $17.05 billion are $312 million, or 1.8 percent, below collections from the previous year.

Revenue from the state’s Gross Production Tax dropped $565 million over last 12 months, down by 29 percent for the year.

All tax sources in November total $1.3 billion. Continuing recent monthly trends, the November total receipts are down by $23 million, or 1.8 percent.

In addition, the previous month comparison shows a decline from October to November of $113 million, or 8 percent.

Other Indicators

The Oklahoma Business Conditions Index plunged in November falling below growth neutral for the first time in three months. The November index was set at 43.2, compared to 53.0 in October. Numbers below 50 indicate the expectation of economic contraction over the next three to six months, but it should be noted that the index has been very volatile in recent months.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the October unemployment rate in Oklahoma was reported as 3.2 percent. The state’s jobless rate ticked up 0.2 percent from 3.0 percent in September. Meanwhile, the U.S. unemployment rate rose to 3.9 percent in October, up 0.1 percent from the previous month.

As measured by the Consumer Price Index, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reports the annual inflation rate decreased to 3.2 percent in October. The energy component of the index continued to show a decline over the year, dropping 4.5 percent, but the food index grew just above the overall inflation rate, ending the month at 3.3 percent.

About Gross Receipts to the Treasury

The monthly Gross Receipts to the Treasury report, developed by the State Treasurer’s Office, provides a timely and broad view of the state’s economy.

It is released in conjunction with the General Revenue Fund report from the Office of Management and Enterprise Services, which provides information to state agencies for budgetary planning purposes.

The General Revenue Fund, the state’s main operating account, receives less than half of the state’s gross receipts with the remainder apportioned to other state funds, remitted to cities and counties, and paid in rebates and refunds.

Later this month, look for the Oklahoma Economic Report, providing a broader economic overview.
